Rob Greenfield is an internationally recognized activist and humanitarian dedicated to leading the way to a more sustainable and just world. He embarks on extreme projects to bring attention to important global issues and inspire positive change. His work has been covered by many hundreds of media outlets worldwide including National Geographic, BBC, CBS This Morning, USA Today, LA Times, The Guardian, Huffington Post to name a few. He is an entertainer by nature, and has delivered nearly 1,000 media interviews designed to intrigue and captivate the viewer, listener or reader and then inspire them to think deeper and make positive changes.

He has hosted a six-episode series on Discovery Channel and is the author of Dude Making a Difference along with three books to be published in 2020-2021. He is an international speaker on the topics of sustainable and ethical living and has delivered two popular TEDx talks in London and Paris.

First and foremost Rob is simply a human being living the embodiment of Gandhi's philosophy, "Be the change you wish to see in the world." He believes that our actions really do matter and that as individuals and communities we have the power to improve the world around us. Rob donates 100% of his TV, writing and media income to grassroots nonprofits and has committed to living simply and responsibly for life. Read his biography at www.robgreenfield.org/bio
